

you and makes the blood covering your body sticky. You smell gunpowder and smoke in the air and hear screams, inhuman roars, and the sounds of battle in the distance.

In front of you are one hundred yards of sand and then a thick wall of jungle that surrounds Complex 23 on three sides. On the forth side is a port and a river that leads out into open sea.

You look left and right but see only the walls of the massive complex stretching off for hundreds of yards and jungle. You take a moment to gather your sense of direction and then head off toward the docks.